Necaise: Road and bridge 'shortfall' is under control

BY TRACI BONNEY

What could have been a sizeable shortfall in the county's road and bridge fund has been taken care of, according to county Chancery Clerk Mike Necaise.

Necaise and board of supervisors attorney Gerald Gex updated the board about the fate of $120,000 budgeted to the road and bridge department at the board's Friday meeting.

Gex had requested an opinion from the state attorney general's office because auditors informed Necaise that a 1987 law prohibits the county from using general county funds for roads and bridges.

According to Necaise, the problem started with a change in the state's homestead exemption formula. Homestead exemption revenues that had been budgeted to the road and bridge fund was shifted under the new formula to the general county fund.

This meant $120,000 previously earmarked for roads and bridges now had to be taken away and put into the general county fund.

The supervisors sought to rectify the situation by transferring the money from the general county fund back into the road and bridge budget. However, auditors said this could not be done.

Gex requested an opinion on section 27-39-303 of the state law, which states in part: "The board of supervisors of any county is further empowered to expend the proceeds of this levy for any purpose authorized for any other levy which the board of supervisors is authorized to make, excluding the levy for roads and bridges."

Gex wrote in his request that he interpreted this section to mean that road and bridge funds could not be used for general purposes, but general county ad valorem funds could be used to fund roads and bridges.

Gex said he received an opinion earlier this week from Larry J. Stroud, special assistant to the attorney general, who stated: "It is our opinion that the funds generated from the general county levy under $27-39-303 may not be used to fund the road and bridge department."

Stroud further said that other opinions written in similar cases — requests that general county funds be used for school construction and for junior college purposes — supported this opinion.

Gex said at the meeting Friday, "He told me I was wrong. My consolation is, I'm not the only one who read it that way."

After Gex's report, Necaise said the situation with the road and bridge budget was in hand.

He explained that the $120,000 will be moved from the road and bridge fund to its proper place in the general county fund, and money from another county account will be transferred to the road and bridge account.

Taking the oath

Betty Breaux selected election commissioner

BY TRACI BONNEY

Betty Breaux, wife of the late Floyd Breaux Sr., was sworn in Friday to fill her husband's unexpired term as Hancock County District 5 election commissioner.

After the ceremony, which was conducted during a meeting of the county board of supervisors, she said, "I'm honored, just absolutely honored. Thank you. I'm going to work as hard as I can."

She then hugged circuit clerk Pam Metzler, who had sworn her in.

She will serve as election commissioner in the stead of her husband, who died July 3, until a special election is held in November.

The board also opened three bids for paving and striping on a section of Old Spanish Trail, appointed Eldon J. Gilly of Waveland to succeed James Ladner as commissioner of the county parks and playgrounds department, and voted to advertise for an August 15 budget hearing.

The board recessed to July 23 at 9 a.m.

Tax hike on horizon for county homeowners

Hancock school board adopts budget for 1990-91

BY TRACI BONNEY

Although the 1990-91 budget for the Hancock County School District is lower, property taxes for county homeowners will still increase.

Superintendent Terrell Randolph said at the school board's Wednesday meeting that the exact amount is uncertain at this time, but the district is predicting an increase of about seven percent. The answer will come when the county board of supervisors sets the school millage rate in September.

The budget adopted at the Wednesday meeting was $13.3 million, which is a decrease of $6.9 million from last year's budget. Much of that decrease is accounted for by the fact that the district's school construction program is nearing completion. However, some of the decrease reflects cuts in transportation and teacher insurance funds made in the state legislature under Gov. Ray Mabus' BEST package.

In addition to adopting the budget, the board:

—opened four bids for high school computers;

—voted to accept the lowest and best bids for instructional and office supplies and equipment;

—approved the resignation of Rocklin M. Gaudin as science teacher/coach at Hancock North Central;

—voted to reject and re-advertise for bids on a special education computer and software;

—approved the employment of Mary Proby as pre-school parent trainer for the District Special Education Cooperative Program for the 1990-91 school year;

—voted to reject and re-advertise for bids to sell six of 13 classroom modules formerly used at Hancock North Central, and to accept the best bids on the other seven;

—approved recommendations to employ Helen Deal, Allyson S. Bradley, Pamela S. Ladner and Geraldine Foxworth as special education, kindergarten, first and second grade teacher assistants for the 1990-91 year;

—approved the transfer of Virginia Doby from second grade teacher assistant to that of full-time Computer-Assisted Instruction (CAI) lab specialist; and approved a recommendation to transfer Rose Acker from Full-time CAI lab assistant to the position of coordinating CAI lab assistant.

Goodwill, Vocational Rehab team up to train, place employees

BY LIZ HAAS

Traci Starr hopes to enjoy a career working with children or in the retail segment of business.

The enthusiastic 23-year old is receiving employment training in her first job from Goodwill Industries through the Department of Human Resources Vocational Training Rehabilitation Program.

It is a joint program in which Goodwill employs people from the Vocational Training Program for a short-term period in order to prepare them for other various job opportunities.

It is a pilot program in which the participants are evaluated on their performance. All possess some handicap, although many are undetectable.

Sometimes immediate job placement is found for individuals and other times it could take anywhere from six months to a year, according to LeRoy Modenbach Jr., executive director of Goodwill Industries of South Mississippi.

The time varies, depending on the person and the jobs available in the community.

Modenbach said, "For example, we had a young man working with us in Gulfport and after one week someone had called offering him a job."

Starr has been working with the Goodwill store in Bay St. Louis on Mondays and Tuesdays since June 11 of this year.

Her duties include putting clothes on the racks, checking them for tears, and straightening and stocking shelves. According to Modenbach, Traci does the same type of work as the other employees. She works with them and they help train her.

Modenbach said, "Our people are very important because they provide work supervision

Sales tax— Bay down; Waveland up

BY JANET MCQUEEN

Waveland continues to lead Bay St. Louis in sales tax collections, reflected in the latest published figures.

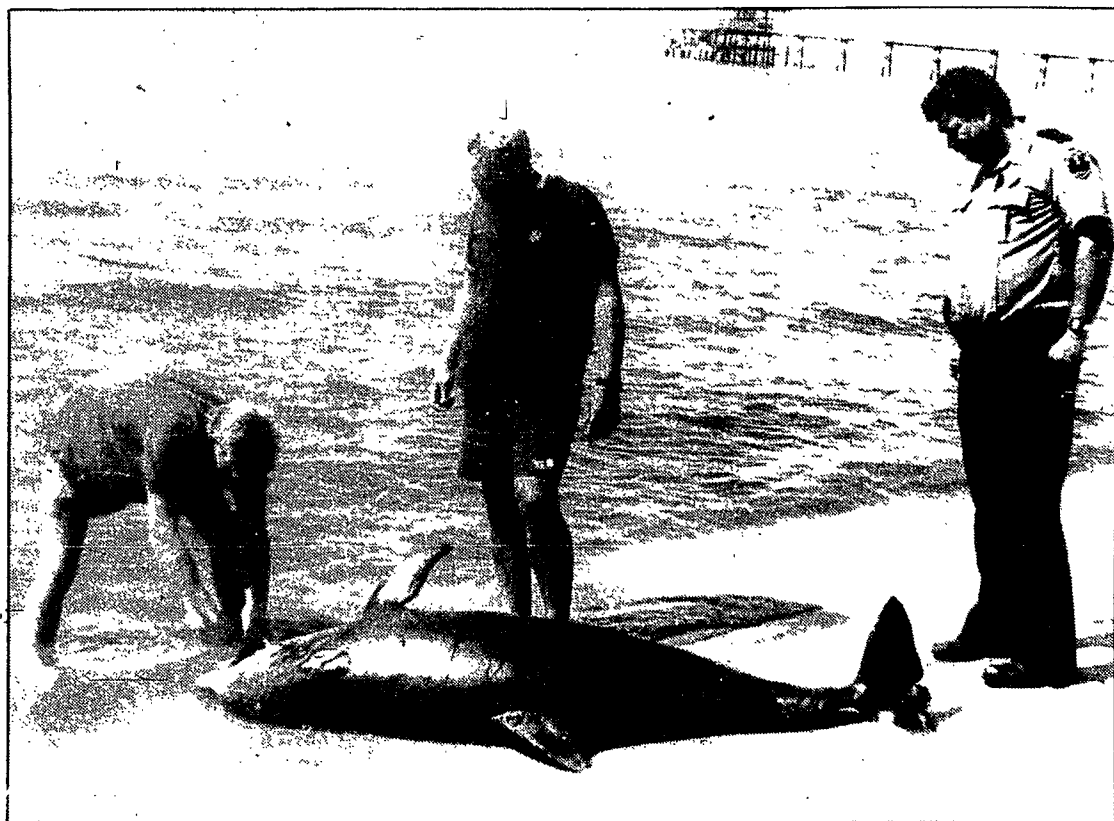

Mississippi State sales tax collections for June include $50,949.09 for Bay St. Louis and $58,657.86 for Waveland.

The June figure reflects taxes collected by merchants during April and reported to the State Tax Commission in May. Payment is made to the city on or about June 16.

May sales tax collections included $51,550.95 for Bay St. Louis and $60,004.26 for Waveland.

The May figure reflects taxes collected by merchants during March and reported in April.

July, 1989 to date Bay St. Louis has collected $563,149.17, compared to $589,881.45 for the previous year, while Waveland boasts an increase this year, $644,536.36, compared to $603,160.86 for the previous year.

Dolphin found

Dr. Eric Jensen of Marine Life Oceanarium in Gulfport examines a 2-3-year old dolphin found washed up on the beach in Waveland, two blocks from Nicholson Avenue, on Wednesday night. The dolphin, which was approximately 6 feet, 7 inches and weighed close to 250 pounds, was possibly ensnared in a shrimp trawl, but showed no apparent sign of injury. for Traci."

He added, "We are looking for punctuality, how workers present themselves and how well they interact with others—the basic work habits."

The goal of the program is to get the person they are working with placed in a permanent job situation.

"When someone is placed, we try to stick close to them for a while to see how things are going and if there is a problem, we're there to help," said Modenbach.

If a person or company would like to hire a Goodwill trainee, they may contact the local store.

Traci's mother, Jeanne Starr, said she is very pleased with the program.

"Every day when I pick Traci up from work, I ask her how it went and she always says very good," said Mrs. Starr.

They have been in Mississippi for the last 2 and one-half years, moving from Louisiana.

Mrs. Starr said, "I am so glad we came to Mississippi because so much has been done so rapidly to help Traci. In Louisiana, the wheels turn much more slowly."

Traci eventually wants to get her own apartment at Notre Dame de la Mer, which provides housing for the handicapped. She is presently waiting for an application. They had planned activities that will be beneficial to her social life, according to her mother.

"She wants to be out on her own and we're not going to hold her back," said Mrs. Starr.

Modenbach said, "The vocational rehabilitation program encourages individuals to be independent and achieve their maximum potentiality. The goal is to have them go on their own, have their own job and their own place to live."

"The biggest problem we have is finding job openings. An employer would really benefit from hiring one of our workers because they will receive an employee who has been screened, trained and is a proven worker."

"It is important for an employer to know he is getting a good worker, and we will not pass anyone through unless we know we have developed a good worker," Modenbach said.

He added, "It's a nice thing for an employer to do, a civic service and a good business decision."

Modenbach said, "Handicapped people are like everyone else; there are some lazy individuals and some who are diligent workers. Traci does not have to be here, she wants to be here."

Reflections

On Life

By Father Jerome
 LeDoux, SVD

The stroll of now

"We must not be about unfixing yesterday. We must not be about fixing tomorrow. We must be about fixing today!"

Spoken with the unique eloquence of one who has hit psychological bottom and then has rebounded resoundingly through the Alcoholics Anonymous recovery program, these words capsule what all of us struggle to understand and implement about life. Of course, both yesterday (history) and tomorrow (the future) are unfixable.

There are numerous ways of stating this most fundamental piece of wisdom. "One day at a time, sweet Jesus," put into song what first recovering alcoholics, then others who claimed to be well strained to harness in their everyday, moment-to-moment quest for solutions to problems, patience in suffering, and peace of mind.

Recurring is far too mild a word for our need to remind ourselves of the overriding importance of today, of this moment, of right now. That is why I shall use this opportunity to repeat some things which I have stated and/or quoted many times before.

Now is all we have. Period. "Yesterday is a cancelled check," insist the recovering alcoholics. "Tomorrow is a promissory note. Only today is ready cash."

There is nothing until we get there, and it does not matter where we are going or what we are pursuing. We can never be in possession of what is past or what is coming, and we are more than blessed if we have a handle on what is now.

A stroll through memory lane can be pleasant if the memories are great, and it can be painful if the memories are ugly and negative. In any case, such a stroll can be rewarding only if it is directed toward our coping with the now.

Needless to say, a stroll through the future is sheer fantasy, since we can do no more than speculate about it.

While scenarios about our conditions of life may help us to plan tomorrow, by emphasizing tomorrow we can be easily duped into forgetting about and neglecting today. Besides, our problems of today are too many and too pressing to leave any time for projecting tomorrow.

Jesus reminds us: "Enough, then, of worrying about tomorrow! Let tomorrow take care of itself. Today has troubles enough of its own" (Mt. 6: 34).

By elimination, the only stroll which makes any sense is the stroll of now. Naturally, no one is so fatuous as to believe that we should not provide, within reason, for our food, clothing, shelter and safety for when and if tomorrow comes.

God does expect us to use common sense. Above and beyond that, however, tomorrow can spin our wheels as destructively as yesterday can.

So powerful is the stroll of now, which includes everyone and everything of our now, that St. Augustine's favorite description of God is "Always Now."

That coincides with Jesus' explanation in John 8: 57, where he equates himself to the Father by simply concluding, "I am." In the real sense, God never was and never will be, but plainly always is. Psychologists concur, insisting that the only real, sane people live in the present.

For decades, spiritual writers have told us of the "Sacrament of the Moment," meaning, of course, now. Moments of the past are sacred only inasmuch as they contribute to our now. Moments of the future are sacred only when our now feeds into them.

Now is the only time to praise God by visiting the sick, helping the needy, consoling the broken, affirming the weak, forgiving everyone, treasuring and showing affection to our loved ones.

Coast Episcopal names new headmaster

The Board of Trustees of Coast Episcopal Schools has announced the selection of the Reverend Jon Allen Caridad as headmaster.

He will serve as executive

FATHER JON

administrator of both Coast Episcopal High School in Pass Christian and Coast Episcopal Elementary School in Bay St. Louis.

Father Caridad has almost 20 years of experience as a priest, educator and administrator. For the past four years he has served as headmaster of Mead Hall School in Aiken, S.C.

Prior to his association with Mead Hall, Father Caridad served as principal of the American Community Schools in London, England for six years.

As assistant rector at St. Thaddeus Episcopal Church in Aiken, Father Caridad served on numerous committees to fight against alcohol and drug use by adolescents.

He brings to the Gulf Coast his years of experience as a counselor and youth advisor in the field of substance abuse.

On speaking of his vision for Coast Episcopal Schools, Father Caridad said, "In 1986, at the Triennial Convention of the National Association of Episcopal Schools, the presiding bishop (Edmond Browning) challenged our Episcopal schools to integrate the Christian faith into the total life of the school and not just attach it as a curriculum alternative."

He also challenged us not to let our schools become vehicles for any form of elitism, whether it be economic, racist or cultural. I would like to bring that double challenge to Coast Episcopal Schools and to help the schools identify their excellence through academic diligence and cultural responsibility, as well as a re-identification and rediscovery of the love of a close Christian community—a love achieved through worship and through the constant seeking of the Will of God in our corporate lives."

Father Caridad assumed his new responsibilities July 9. Parents and students are invited to visit the high school on Espy Avenue in Pass Christian to meet the new headmaster.

Anyone interested in enrolling or desiring more information may call 452-9442 in Pass Christian or call the elementary school in Bay St. Louis at 467-5125.

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

It is always good to take a vacation and get away from the regular grind for a few days.

In case some of you wonder how my columns were written while I was gone, I did them before leaving for vacation.

I had worked on some of them, especially the Archives, for about two months.

In case you are wondering where we went, Jane and I, along with Rev. and Mrs. Robert Miller attended the Passion Play at Oberammergau, Germany.

We visited the countries of Germany, Austria, Switzerland, Liechtenstein and Luxembourg.

The best word to describe the vacation is 'fantastic.'

The two weeks while we were gone, I understand rainfall was very little. On vacation it rained 12 of the 14 days. Folks in that part of the world just do not pay any attention to rain and continue their activities as if the sun were shining.

It is hard to imagine the number of waterfalls in the mountains of Austria.

The one problem we all seemed to have was getting accustomed to walking in mountainous terrain. My old knees ached several times.

The pride by the residents of their communities is very evident in the clean streets and yards and the presence of beautiful flowers everywhere.

You just do not see ANY LITTER on the streets, period.

Of course, as I feel the countries were good to visit, but I feel I prefer to live in Hancock County.

The cost of living is very high compared to our area. As an example, they pay about $3 a gallon for gas.

There are very few automobiles, and over 99 percent of them are compact models.

It costs from $200,000 to $300,000 to build a family home, so many homes are multi-family occupied.

Every-day food items are also very expensive, not to mention the prices of meals in restaurants.

By the way, we did see two McDonald's in Germany, and they were very busy.

Yes, I am glad to be back home.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Antiqueing in "The Bay?" No kidding!

To the Editor:

Singers Michael and Janet Jackson's mom, (matriarch of the Jackson clan), browsed leisurely and unnoticed through "Beach Antique Mall" in Bay St. Louis on Tuesday, picking up souvenirs and enjoying herself as she roamed from booth to booth.

She is a quiet, very sweet, mild-mannered lady, and one would never have thought her to be mother of "The Michael."

It was not until after she left the shop that I was informed by her female companion of who she was. I stood stunned, yet excited and could not wait to tell everyone who entered thereafter that Mrs. Jackson had honored our shop with her presence and was equally thrilling that she purchased a great deal of our merchandise.

Merchants' sponsorship provides 'Parade of Flags'

Dear Editor:

All too often we take for granted the freedoms we enjoy as United States citizens. Daily news stories relate the constant struggle of our oppressed, overworked neighbors seeking release from the tyranny of socialism and communism.

And yet, there are those of us who think nothing of desecrating the very symbol of our freedom—the American flag. The Hancock County Exchange Club, in association with its national organization, is dedicated to preserving the integrity of our flag and all it stands for.

The club's "Parade of Flags," displayed numerous times during the year, is a reflection of this commitment—a commitment that is shared by many merchants in our community. It is these merchants' yearly sponsorship of the Exchange Club's flag project that makes it possible.

Each flag flown represents one merchant's willingness to support the Exchange Club's program and to tell everyone, "I'm proud to be an American."

To those good Americans, the Hancock County Exchange Club proudly salutes your patriotism and greatly appreciates your continued support.

Sincerely,
William J. Stechmann,
President
Hancock County Exchange Club

House proposes $1 billion package for education reform

Education is one of the greatest provisions that we as parents and citizens of South Mississippi can give our children. For the past decade the state has worked diligently to enact education reforms and properly prepare our children to excel in a changing and competitive world. The federal government, working with state governors and legislators, is also making education a priority.

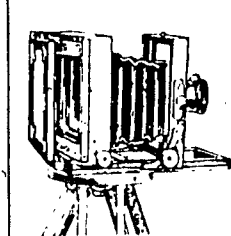

The House of Representatives is close to enacting an all encompassing education measure that combines the best of an education proposal offered by President Bush with an equally strong Democrat alternative.

The legislation is called "The Equity and Excellence in Education Act of 1990" and is set for a floor vote.

This broad $1 billion package outlines an important set of goals for students, teachers and administrators to be reached by the year 2,000. The intent of the legislation is to prepare three and four-year-olds for elementary classes, bolster the high school graduation rate, provide education incentives to the disabled, make America first in the world in mathematics and science, tackle adult illiteracy, enhance teacher recruitment and training and provide better opportunities for all qualified students to gain a post secondary education.

The bill would appropriate funding for exemplary schools labeled "Presidential Schools of Distinction" and for the National Science Scholars program. It would establish a national literacy institute and satellite literacy centers.

It would authorize $90 million in financial assistance for students who are willing to

The trip from Bay St. Louis to Pensacola and return was made by water. Mr. Marshall tells of quite an experience on the return trip, when the boat ran aground on "Dixie Bar," located about midway between Fort Morgan and Pensacola. It was at one time thought the vessel (68 feet in length) would beat to pieces on the rough shoals, but a powerful sea-going tug came to the rescue.

THE PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

From the Mississippi Economic Council

Employers will lose with passage of Kennedy's bill

All men are created equal—except employers.

That seems to be the theme of legislation working its way through the Congress.

Identified as the federal "Civil Rights Bill of 1990" and authored by Senator Ted Kennedy of Massachusetts, the act would substantially increase the burdens and risks of liability of every employer in the country.

Proponents claim the legislation would simply restore employee protections against discrimination voided by recent U.S. Supreme Court decisions.

Opponents, however, see the bill differently. The U.S. Chamber of Commerce and other business groups argue that the proposal will dramatically expand employment laws that have been developed over the past 25 years.

Employers will certainly be concerned about these provisions of the proposed new law:

—Permits of plaintiff to establish civil rights violations in employment solely on the basis of statistical comparisons among groups of employees.

—Forces employers to engage in quota hiring to protect themselves from lawsuits.

—Presumes that employers are guilty of discrimination until they are proven innocent.

—Encourages the filing of additional lawsuits because of the presumption of guilt of the employer and the potential for large monetary awards.

Mississippi employers, and employees who want to help protect a business climate which will generate job opportunities, will want to proclaim their opposition to the legislation to Mississippi's Congressional delegation.

enter the teaching profession. It would approve additional money to help current teachers enhance their skills.

For the most part, the education reform legislation in the House enjoys bipartisan support. Most representatives recognize that money wisely spent on education is also wise investment.

According to the Secretary of Education Lauro F. Cavazos, "three-fourths of American's 17-year-olds cannot write a decent persuasive letter, the majority of our 11th graders cannot read well enough to learn from their own text books, half of our high school juniors can't do junior high mathematics.

"Through measures like the Equity and Excellence in Education Act of 1990, Congress is working to change all of that. We are giving our young people the opportunity to go as far as their dreams will allow."

SHOPPING UP A STORM

By Katy
McGuire Caire

Salads say "summer," especially leafy green salads, with their cool look and refreshing taste; and there are lettuce varieties aplenty in the produce bins of our supermarkets just now, at good prices.

If you're one of those who bring home over and over again from the markets a head or so of the perennial iceberg lettuce, now's the time to branch out and try some of the other varieties for a change of pace—and taste!

Young, tender spinach leaves also make a tasty salad (and incidentally, are also delicious in a stir-fry chicken or ham dish). I also like to toss up a green salad of the spinach leaves, using Boston or Bibb and read leaf lettuce in addition.

I like to mix a slightly bitter green such as chicory or curly endive with a milder flavored leaf lettuce such as Bibb, and to offset the bitterness of escarole with the milder romaine and so on. Variety is the spice of a leafy green salad.

I store the varied greens, unwashed in a plastic bag or tightly closed container in the fridge, washing them gently as needed and drying with a clean, soft paper towel. I store any leftover salad in a plastic freezer bag in the fridge. As for amounts, it takes two cups of loosely packed greens per person, less if the salad contains other ingredients. A medley of crisp greens needs no further embellishment than a good oil and vinegar dressing and a bit of seasonings, but at other times you'll want to reach into those vegetable bins and add summer's vegetable bounty of one sort or another, or even make up a whole meal-in-a-salad bowl!

Tomatoes are in good supply, at good prices at the markets these days, as are cucumbers and okra and bell (green) peppers, for example. Pick up a few onions, or a sack, and save some out for sliced cucumber and onion salad, or sliced tomato and onion salad, or mix 'em all together in the salad bowl, along with bell pepper strips or slices.

Use your oil and vinegar dressing with these salads, or a creamy dressing if you prefer. And, if it's a cooling and cooling-looking whole-meal-in-a-salad bowl you wish, try:

SALAD NICOISE

6 small new potatoes
1 cup tiny French green beans (or regular green beans)
1/4 cup basil wine vinegar or white wine vinegar
1/4 tsp. Dijon mustard
6 Tbsp. olive oil
1 Tbsp. minced fresh parsley

2 tsp. minced fresh basil
Salt, freshly ground black pepper to taste
1 cup cherry tomatoes, halved
1 clove garlic, halved
6 cups torn Boston or assorted lettuces
1 can (7 oz.) albacore tuna, drained and flaked
3 hard-cooked eggs, peeled and quartered
6 to 8 anchovy fillets
1/2 cup Nicoise olives (or other)

Cook the potatoes in boiling water until for-tender, 5 to 10 minutes. Drain well, rinse under cold water to stop the cooking. Refrigerate.

Drop beans in boiling water; cook until crisp-tender, approximately 3 minutes. Drain well, rinse under cold water, to stop the cooking. Refrigerate.

Put the vinegar and mustard in a small bowl and whisk until smooth. Gradually whisk in oil until smooth. Whisk in parsley, basil, salt and pepper.

Mix beans with a little of the dressing and toss well. Slice potatoes and mix with a little of the dressing and toss well. Mix tomatoes with a little of the dressing and toss well. Rub the bottom and sides of a large salad bowl with cut sides of garlic. Put lettuce leaves in salad bowl. Drizzle remaining dressing over the lettuce and toss to coat.

Mound the beans over lettuce at one side of bowl. Arrange potatoes at other side, tomatoes at still another side and tuna in the center. Put egg quarters around edge of bowl. Lay anchovy fillets over all. Sprinkle with olives and serve immediately. (Four servings)—from the Chicago Tribune cookbook.

Often in summertime I serve a simple, quick meal of varied lettuces, with quartered tomatoes and hard-cooked eggs, along with sliced onions and bell peppers, with additions of cooked chicken or ham or beef strips or chunks, seasoned and dressed to my taste and inclinations on that day. This salad needs nothing more than crisp hot French bread to round out the meal. And for dessert—a selection from the fruit bins! Of course!

Bananas are a special bargain just now, with peaches and nectarines and melons in good supply as well.

As for meat, with special sales on several beef and pork cuts, as well as "light call" offerings, along with chicken, from a few parts to whole fryers, just pick it out and head for the checkout. Whole turkeys are also on sale. Enjoy!

Bentley: Canine drug agent

Children in "Second Home" summer program witness drug detection by Labrador retriever

BY LIZ HAAS

Children in the "Second Home" and summer meals programs in Bay St. Louis and Waveland recently got the chance to see a drug detection dog in action when Joe Valencic and friend, Bentley, visited them.

Valencic, a canine enforcement officer with United States Customs, brought the nine-year-old, 90 pound black labrador retriever with him to demonstrate how dogs are used in the detection of narcotics.

Valencic has worked with Bentley since 1983, but retired him from active duty three years ago because of the dog's bad back.

Before he allowed the dog to hunt for the hidden pseudo-drugs he gave a drug education talk to the children present. He emphasized to the children they do not need drugs to go through life.

He said, "Drugs have no boundaries. They can kill anyone they touch."

In explaining the training program for the dogs, Valencic said, "Bentley is trained in detecting cocaine, marijuana, heroin, hash and any other mix made of these drugs, and he is alert to the drug 'Ice', a new, very addictive drug coming from the Far East."

The dogs trained in the program are not addicted to the drugs. Instead, they are taught scent association. The trainers can train any dog to do this during the 12-week training period.

In the training program, trainers take a drug, tie it to a towel and play fetch and tug-of-war with the towel. The dogs associate the game with the odor and look for the odor to play the game.

When a dog finds the drug, he begins scratching and the drug enforcer knows the dog has found an odor. Then enforcer then gives him the towel and he leaves the area so the enforcers can handle the actual drug bust.

"We don't use small dogs for drug detection in open areas and buildings. The enforcer needs to keep his eye on the dog at all times.

If the dog crawls into a small area and the enforcer loses track of him, the dog may find the drug, ingest it and die because the enforcer wasn't there to get him his reward towel.

Schooling costs approximately $25,000 for each dog. The dog's value increases with each drug find.

"Bentley is valued at $15 million," Valencic said.

The dogs that are taught to be aggressive drug locators scratch and bite when they sense the drug odor, so they cannot be used in cases where drugs may be hidden on humans. Those dogs taught to be passive locators sit when they locate a drug odor.

For the demonstration Valencic used two training aids, pseudo drugs which have the same scent as the real drug, and planted them in the area next to the S. J. Ingram building.

Valencic said, "Bentley has to be downwind to detect the odor because the blowing wind carries the odor with it."

The dog found both hidden pseudo drugs almost instantly, and Valencic gave him the reward towel to play with.

The officer wore plastic gloves as he let the dog retrieve the training aids.

He explained, "When we're training, we do it to keep our odor off the aids. If our own odor gets on them, the dogs will begin to associate our odor and the drug odor with the game."

"If that happens, they won't be any good for detecting drugs."

The Second Home program is sponsored by the Hancock Recreation Association, under the direction of Herta Smith of Bay St. Louis.

Volunteers staff the Waveland Elementary and Bay Middle School cafeterias between breakfast and lunch times each weekday to supervise arts and crafts, movies and special programs. The Second Home and food programs are offered free of charge to any child in the area.

Project Pride

Bay St. Louis encourages homeowners to keep neighborhoods litter-free

Special to the Echo
Congratulations to Bay St. Louis residents for remembering to make a special effort to have our city clean for Fourth of July visitors.

A clean city makes a tremendous economic impact. Visitors stop, enjoy our city and spend money.

Project Pride is making visible progress. Neighborhoods are responding to the increased efforts of the city's Public Works Department in having roadside grass cut regularly.

Please continue to cut your ditch areas to the street. Every area you cut saves further expenditures of your tax dollar in maintenance. You can make a difference.

Valpine Subdivision, located on Union Street, has consistently kept its neighborhood up to par all spring and summer.

This neighborhood keeps the grass cut and trimmed, toys are kept in the back yard, car repairs are made out of sight and residents have landscaped in an attractive manner.

The following suggestion to help in Project Pride require little effort, but will result in visible improvements:

1. Use that plastic bag from the supermarket as a litter bag in your car. Put one under the dash and hook a bag on each handle in the back seat!

2. Please, please, please use a lid on your curb side garbage container. Don't just put out a plastic bag of garbage, put the bag in a container, with a tight fitting lid so animals won't make a mess.

Please mail your suggestions to Project Pride, P.O. Box 2550, Bay St. Louis, MS 39521.

Carver earns Eagle Scout badge

H. Matthew Carver of Bay St. Louis was honored by Troop 217 as an Eagle Scout, the highest scouting honor, in a ceremony on June 26.

To earn the title, a scout is required to earn 21 merit badges, serve for six months in a leadership position and do a service project that would benefit the community or the schools.

Eleven of the 21 merit badges Carver had to earn were required, and the other ten were his own choice.

He served as junior assistant scoutmaster for Troop 217. He also secured donations of medical supplies and made up first aid kits for the science department at Bay Senior High School.

Carver, 17, is the son of Harold and Nina Carver. He has been in scouting for 10 years and is a 1990 graduate of Bay High.

His future in scouting could include assistant scoutmaster when he is 18 and scoutmaster when he is 21.

Carver will attend the University of Southern Mississippi this fall.

much?

Don't sweat out another long, hot summer with an outdated air conditioning system. Think of the discomfort your family must endure, by always being too hot or too cold. Then call your nearest Total Comfort Pledge™ heat pump dealer for immediate relief.

Not only will an electric heat pump provide a cool, even temperature throughout your entire home, it'll also operate far more efficiently than your old air conditioner.

And you'll save in another important way, too: by replacing that dinosaur of a gas furnace you've been coping with all these years.

So, this year, make a cool move. Instead of cranking up the old air conditioner and praying it makes it through another season, bury both your dinosaurs at once. And improve your circulation year-round with an energy-efficient electric heat pump.

Jourdan River Shores Boat Parade

Jourdan River Shores property owners had what some called "the largest and most colorful boat parade ever held in Jourdan River Shores" July 1, with 18 boats participating.

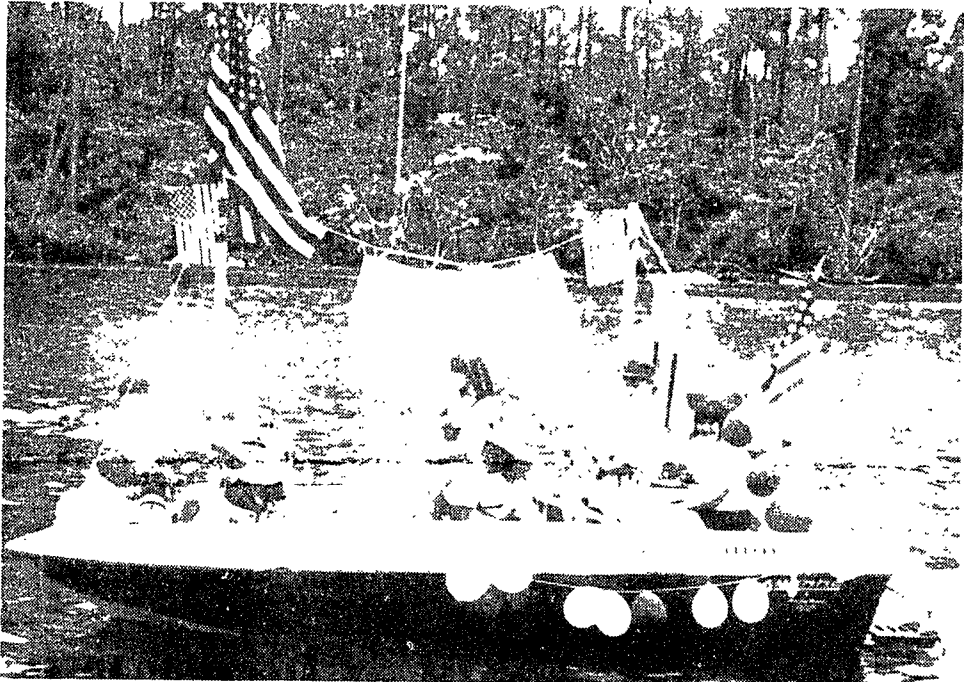

Parade Captain Norman J. Foucha attributed the success of the event to the enthusiasm of the property owners aboard the boats.

Foucha said Cyril Mayeux, president of the Jourdan River Shores Property Owners' Association, was complimented by the judges for the organization and professionalism with which the parade was conducted.
